"If there is risk, there must be choice. This is the fundamental bedrock truth of bio-ethics." Since such mandates remove choice, he feels they "deny human dignity" #DefeatTheMandates pic.twitter.com/rCqM4gwX8M

Dr. Robert Malone spoke at the protest in Washington D.C. against the city's vaccine mandate:

"If there is risk, there must be choice. This is the fundamental bedrock truth of bio-ethics. All medical procedures, vaccines, and drugs have risks. All of us have the right to understand these risks, and to decide for ourselves whether we willingly accept those risks. To deny this is to deny human dignity."
