This architectural floor plan illustrates a modern office building layout. The central corridor, featuring a herringbone wood floor, serves as the main circulation space. To the left of the corridor, there are several office spaces, including a large open-plan area with desks and chairs, and a meeting room with a round table. To the right, there are more office spaces, including a large open-plan area with desks and chairs, and a meeting room with a round table. The building has a white facade with a series of windows along the top and bottom edges. The interior is furnished with desks, chairs, and plants. The plan is oriented with the entrance at the top right.
